The Master Playbook

FAMILY SHIELD FINANCIAL — MASTER PLAYBOOK

The complete recruiting + activation operation, start to finish

This is the one document. Read it top-to-bottom and you understand the whole machine. Every section points to the detail file where the word-for-word scripts and tools live. If you only ever read one file, read this one.

THE WHOLE THING IN ONE PICTURE

The one sentence: Two engines, kept separate. The Funnel turns strangers into signed agents through a 3-call close. Activation turns signed agents into licensed producers with a first sale in ~21 days. Content feeds the top; graduates feed it back through referrals.

PART 1 — THE BRAND

Name: Family Shield Financial · Footprint: all 50 states · Mark:

What we are: A nationwide life insurance agency that recruits and develops licensed agents.

The one line: "We don't hire you and leave you — we get you licensed, hand you a proven system, and stay on the phone with you until you make money."

Who we recruit: People with a problem money can solve and the work ethic to solve it. Not "anyone with a pulse."

Voice: Plain language, confidence not pressure, zero hype. The brand filters — it doesn't beg. (Matches the content style bible: no income hype, frame-one hook, Montserrat.)

→ Full detail: RECRUITING_SYSTEM.md §0

PART 2 — ENGINE 1: THE RECRUITING FUNNEL

Step 1 — Attract (content)

AGENT and MENTOR pillar posts from your content plan do the top-of-funnel work. The real signals in this niche are saves and DMs, not public comments — people won't comment publicly about money and family fears. → feeds into CONTENT_PLAN.

Step 2 — Warm DMs (up to 50/day)

Personalize the first line every time, one question per message, the only goal is to book Call 1 — never pitch the business in the DMs. 30 real conversations beat 50 blasts. → Scripts: CALL_SCRIPTS.md §A

Step 3 — The pre-call video (the multiplier)

The moment they book, send the 3-minute "watch before our call" video. It pre-frames the opportunity, filters tire-kickers, and cuts Call 1 in half. The send-line — "if it's a clear no after watching, tell me and I'll free your slot" — filters for you before you spend a minute. → Script: PRECALL_VIDEO_SCRIPT.md (action: record it)

Step 4 — The 3-Call Close

Call	Length	Goal	Do NOT
1 — Intro	5–10 min	Explain what it is, light qualify, book Call 2	Don't close here
2 — Fit/Discovery	20–40 min	Run the discovery loop, confirm fit, mutual yes	Don't pitch — diagnose
3 — Offer	15–30 min	Make the offer, set the standard, sign	Don't sign before they hear the standard

The discovery loop (heart of Call 2 — your own framework): 1. The Problem — Why are you really on this call? What's not working? 2. The History — What have you tried / are you doing now? (proves their road won't get them there) 3. The Solution — Here's how this fixes THAT specific problem. 4. The Future — What does life look like once it's solved? (make them say it)

→ Word-for-word for all 3 calls + objection table: CALL_SCRIPTS.md §B–E

Who's a "good fit" — knockout questions (a "no" ends it)

- Can fund the start (~$200–500 course + exam + background, plus leads later)?
- Can commit real hours — and do Hell Week (a full week of 10–12 hr days)?
- Coachable / accountable without a boss?

- A real WHY — a problem they're solving?
- Clean enough background to be licensed?

→ Full criteria + green/red flags: RECRUITING_SYSTEM.md §2

PART 3 — ENGINE 2: ACTIVATION (the 21-day clock)

The one lever that predicts everything: schedule the state exam on Day 0–1. A locked exam date with money on it turns "I'll study eventually" into "I test Thursday."

Day 0    Sign + schedule exam + start course + start contracting (SureLC) + start fingerprints if needed
Day 1    Orientation call, study plan, daily check-ins begin
Day 2-8  Study + practice exams (target 80%+) + shadow live sales calls
Day 9-11 PASS the exam
Day 11-14 Contracting complete → writing numbers; arm leads, CRM, dialer; live test dial
Day 14-21 HELL WEEK → FIRST SALE + referral ask at graduation
Day 21+  30/60/90: consistency → independence → leadership

All-states reality

You recruit nationwide, so the licensing path varies per recruit — course hours run 0→60 (~34 states now require zero), some states gate on fingerprints, and state processing adds 0–7 days. The agent's part fits in ~7–10 days; slippage is almost always state-side. On Day 0, look up their state's row (10 seconds) → STATE_LICENSING_TABLE.csv (verify uncertain cells, → STATE_TABLE_README.md).

In 0-hour states, push the exam to Day 5–7 — don't let them coast to Day 11.

Hell Week (Days 14–21)

Compress a month of effort into 7 days while support and motivation peak. Daily: morning huddle → dial block → review → dial block → supported closes (mentor on every close) → debrief. First money in week one is the #1 predictor of retention. Goal: first sale by Day 21.

→ Hour-by-hour structure + onboarding checklist: RECRUITING_SCHEDULE.md + STANDARDS_AND_AGREEMENT.md §3

PART 4 — THE STANDARD & THE AGREEMENT

Set the standard on Call 3, before the signature. People who hear it and still sign don't quit in week two; people who flinch were going to quit anyway — better to know now.

We promise: licensed in 10–14 days · strong carrier contracts · the full system (leads, scripts, dialer, CRM) · mentor on your first sales · real support through chargeback/rollup — not abandonment.

You promise: exam scheduled within 48 hrs · licensed in ~2 weeks, no drifting · finish Hell Week · every call and training, run the script · protect the book (persistence) · coachable and honest.

The deal is symmetrical: world-class support for world-class effort.

Agreement must cover plainly (so nothing surprises them later): chargebacks (advance vs. earned, lapses), rollup (downline debt rolling to upline), 1099 status, comp/advance terms, lead cost, book ownership, data/PII, compliance acknowledgment.

→ Full standard + chargeback/rollup explained + onboarding checklist + safe income language:

PART 5 — RUNNING IT DAY-TO-DAY

Your daily rhythm (the blocks that make 50 DMs actually happen)

8:00a	DM Power Hour	– overnight replies first, then new outreach (log every convo)
9:00a	Pipeline sweep	– confirm today's calls, send no-show touches + study check-ins
10:00a	Call block	– Call 1s/2s/3s stacked back-to-back; update tracker between calls
1:30p	Your production	– your sales + Hell Week support (new agents never close alone)
7:00p	Evening sweep	– 2nd DM pass (best reply rates), check-in replies, tomorrow's list
8:00p	Score the day	– 5 min, fill the scoreboard

Outreach before admin. Tracker updates in the moment. Protect the call block. Sunday review is sacred. →

DAILY_RHYTHM.md

Every message ready to paste

Booking confirmations + 24h/1h reminders (no-show fix), 3-touch no-show recovery, between-call texts, daily study check-ins, exam-day (incl. the failed-exam rebook text), Hell Week, respectful declines. →

MESSAGE_TEMPLATES.md

The tracker (one row per recruit)

Every recruit, every stage, every KPI. Source column tags referrals back to the agent who gave them. →

RECRUIT_TRACKER.csv

PART 6 — THE SCOREBOARD (what makes it "VERY clear")

Count these. The numbers tell you which engine to fix.

Funnel: DMs sent → reply % → Call 1 booked % → C1→C2 % → C2→signed % · no-show % (expect 30–50%)

Activation: signed → exam scheduled % → passed % → first sale in Hell Week % ← the number that matters

Weekly review (Sunday, 30 min): compute the funnel, find the single worst number vs last week, change one lever that week. Forecast how many land in Hell Week in the next 2 weeks. Confirm AGENT/MENTOR content went out.

Starting volume targets (recalibrate after 30 days of real data): 150–250 DMs/wk · 8–12 Call 1s · 4–6 Call 2s · 1–2 signed · 1–2 in Hell Week at any time. At ≥2 signed/week, switch to cohort onboarding (start them together, shared Hell Week, class group chat — peer accountability replaces half your check-ins).

→ RECRUITING_SYSTEM.md §5 + DAILY_RHYTHM.md

PART 7 — THE SELF-FEEDING LOOP

At the Hell Week graduation debrief, while the first-sale win is fresh, ask every new agent:

"Who are 2–3 people in your world who'd want what you just did?"

A brand-new agent with a sale on the books is your most credible recruiter, and warm referrals convert far better than cold DMs. Log them as Source = "Referral — [agent]". This question is what turns the funnel into a flywheel.

PART 8 — COMPLIANCE (non-negotiable, applies everywhere)

- No income claims. Never state or imply a dollar figure in any DM, call, post, or video. FTC requires a reasonable basis + typical-results disclosure. Safest: sell the system and opportunity, never a number. → safe language in STANDARDS_AND_AGREEMENT.md §4.
- Testimonials must be typical or carry a disclosure; paid/affiliated connections disclosed.
- TCPA/DNC: keep cold outreach in DMs (opt-out friendly); scrub any phone/text lists against DNC. Same discipline as the customer dialer.
- PII/GLBA: store recruit and client data securely — no SSNs in plain spreadsheets.
- 1099 framing: "contract/partner/agent," never "hire/employee/salary."

Operational guidance, not legal advice. Action: have a licensed attorney review the agent agreement and income-claim language before scaling.

THE THREE THINGS STILL ON YOU

1. Record the pre-call video — script is ready in PRECALL_VIDEO_SCRIPT.md.
 2. Pick a booking tool (Calendly or similar with SMS reminders) and drop the link into the DM bridge message.
 3. Attorney review of the agreement + income language.

Scripts: DM & the 3-Call Close

Family Shield Financial — Scripts (DM → 3-Call Close)

Word-for-word frameworks. Don't read them robotically — internalize the intent of each step. The whole funnel is: attract → DM → Call 1 (intro) → Call 2 (fit/discovery) → Call 3 (offer).

Compliance reminder on every line below: no income promises, no "make $X." Sell the opportunity, the system, and the support — never a number.

A. Warm DM outreach (up to 50/day)

Target: people who engage with your content + relevant non-followers. The signal that works is reference something specific about them — it triggers reciprocity and proves you're a human, not a blast.

Opener (after they engage or follow):

"Hey [name] — appreciate you following along. Quick one: are you in [their field] full-time right now, or open to other things?"

If they reply / engaged with an AGENT or MENTOR post:

"Saw you [liked the post about getting licensed / commented on the agent video]. Out of curiosity — what made that one catch your eye?"

Bridge to a call (once there's a back-and-forth):

"Honestly easier to explain on a quick call than type it all out. I do 10-min intro calls to see if it's even a fit both ways — want me to send a couple times?"

DM rules: - Personalize the first line every time. No copy-paste blasts (kills reply rate + looks spammy). - One question per message. Make it easy to reply. - Goal of the DM is one thing: book Call 1. Don't pitch the business in the DMs. - Track every conversation in the tracker. Follow up twice if no reply, then let content keep warming them. - Up to 50/day, but personalized > volume. 30 real conversations beat 50 blasts.

B. CALL 1 — Intro (5–10 min)

Goal: explain what it is + light qualify + book Call 2. Do NOT close here. Top recruiters keep this to 5–7 minutes and intentional.

1. Frame (30 sec)

"Thanks for hopping on. This is a quick one — I just want to tell you what we actually do, ask you a couple things, and if it makes sense we'll set a longer call to go deeper. Fair?"

2. What it is (1–2 min) — plain, no hype

"We're Family Shield Financial. We help families protect their income with life insurance, and we build licensed agents to do that. It's a 1099 commission role — you get licensed, we hand you a proven system and leads, and we stay on the phone with you until you're making money. It's not a salary job and it's not for everyone — that's kind of the point of these calls."

3. Light qualify — knockout questions (2–3 min)

- "What's got you open to something new right now?" (listen for the WHY)
- "Are you in a spot where you could invest a little in yourself to get licensed and started?"
- "Are you someone who can hold themselves accountable without a boss on top of you?"

4. Book Call 2 (1 min)

"Here's how I run it — I don't offer anyone a spot on a first call. Next step is a longer call where we go deep on your situation and whether this actually solves something for you, and you grill me too. If after that we both feel it, there's a third call where I'd make you an offer. Sound fair? Let's get the next one on the calendar."

If they're clearly unqualified (won't invest, wants salary, no why): be honest and kind — "I don't think this is the right fit, and I'd rather tell you straight." A clean no protects your time.

C. CALL 2 — Fit / Discovery (the most important call, 20–40 min)

Goal: run the discovery loop, confirm the fit criteria, get a mutual yes. This is where you find the problem and why they're on the call, exactly as you described. You talk ~30%, they talk ~70%.

Step 1 — THE PROBLEM (why are they really here?)

- "So tell me — what's actually going on that's got you looking? What's not working where you're at?"
- "If nothing changed in the next year, where does that leave you?"
- "What would have to be different for you to feel like you're winning?"

Dig until you hit the real problem — money, time, freedom, dead-end job, providing for family. Write it down. This is the fuel for the whole journey.

Step 2 — THE HISTORY (what have they tried / are doing?)

- "What have you already tried to fix that?"
- "What are you doing right now for money, and what's the ceiling on it?"
- "Why hasn't [current path] gotten you there?"

This proves to THEM that their current road won't reach their goal — without you having to say it.

Step 3 — THE SOLUTION (connect it to THEIR problem)

"Okay — based on what you just told me, here's specifically how this fixes that. You said [their problem]. With us, [the exact part of the system that solves it]. You get licensed in about two weeks, we hand you leads and a script, and we're on the phone with you for your first sales. That directly hits the [money/time/freedom] thing you described."

Tailor it to what they said. Don't give the generic pitch — give the pitch shaped like their problem.

Step 4 — THE FUTURE (make them say it)

- "Let's say six months from now this worked. What's different in your life?"
- "What does it mean for [their family / their why] if you pull that off?"

When they describe the solved future in their own words, they've sold themselves. You just confirmed the fit.

Step 5 — Confirm fit + tee up the offer

"Honestly, based on everything — I think you could do this, and I think it solves the [problem] you came in with. The last step is a call where I lay out the actual offer, the agreement, and exactly what's expected on both sides. Before that call, I need you to be sure you want it, because when I make the offer I'm betting on you. Are you in for that conversation?"

If they're not a fit, say so here. Better an honest no on Call 2 than a quitter in week two.

D. CALL 3 — Offer + Set the Standard (15–30 min)

Goal: make the offer, set the standard before signing, sign the agreement. (Full standard + agreement terms in STANDARDS_AND_AGREEMENT.md.)

1. Recap their why (2 min)

"Before anything — remind me why you're doing this." (Get them to restate the problem/why. Anchors the whole call in their motivation.)

2. The offer (3 min)

"Here's what I'm offering you: a spot as a licensed agent with Family Shield Financial. We get you licensed in 10–14 days, contract you with our carriers, hand you the system, leads, and a dialer, and we personally work your first sales with you in Hell Week. You're a 1099 partner — you own your business, we give you the machine and the mentorship."

3. Set the standard — BEFORE the signature (5 min)

"And here's what I expect in return, because I only bet on people who'll bet on themselves: - You schedule your exam in the next 48 hours and you get licensed in about two weeks. No drifting. - Hell Week is real — one week of 10–12 hour days. That's where your first sale comes from. Non-negotiable. - You show up to every call and training, you run the script, you do the activity. - You understand how chargebacks and rollover work (walk them through it now — see agreement) so nothing surprises you later. - In exchange, I give you everything I've got. I don't leave people hanging. Can you commit to that standard?"

People who hear the standard and still say yes don't quit. People who flinch here were going to quit in week two anyway — better to find out now.

4. Close / sign (5 min)

"Then let's make it official." - Send the agreement (DocuSign). Sign on the call if possible. - Immediately: schedule the exam, send course + SureLC links, add to the team chat. - "Welcome to Family Shield. Day one starts now — let's get your exam booked before we hang up."

E. Objection handling (quick reference)

Objection	Response (intent: empathize → reframe → re-ask)
"I need to think about it."	"Totally fair. Usually 'think about it' means there's one specific thing — is it the money to start, the time, or whether you can do it? Let's talk about that one."
"I don't have the money to get licensed."	"I hear you. The reason it costs a little is that it's a real license and a real business, not a gig. If [their why] matters enough, is the few hundred the real blocker, or is it something else?" (Don't fund them — qualify the commitment.)
"Is this MLM / pyramid?"	"No. You make money selling insurance to families who need it — full stop. You can build a team later if you want, but you eat off your own sales from week one."
"I can only do it part-time."	"A lot of people start while working. But Hell Week needs a full week of long days to get your first sale — can you carve that out? After that we talk schedule."
"I've never done sales."	"Most of our best agents hadn't. That's why there's a system and why we're on the calls with you. I'm not looking for experience, I'm looking for coachable and hungry — are you both?"
"What if I fail?"	"Then we rebook and go again — I don't release people who are putting in the work. The only way to fail is to quit on the activity."

Standards, Agreement & Onboarding

Family Shield Financial — Standards, Agreement & Onboarding

What "setting the standard" actually contains, the agreement terms to cover (chargeback + rollup), and the onboarding checklist so nobody falls through.

Not legal advice. Have a licensed attorney review the actual signed agreement and any income-claim language before you use it at scale.

1. The Standard (the culture contract)

Set this on Call 3 before signing, and repeat it at orientation. This is the bar that keeps quitters out and producers in.

What we promise the agent: - Get you licensed in 10–14 days. - Contract you with strong carriers (competitive comp). - Hand you a proven system: leads, scripts, dialer, CRM. - Personal mentorship — we're on your first sales with you (Hell Week three-way closes). - Real support through chargeback/rollup issues, not abandonment.

What the agent promises us: - Schedule the exam within 48 hours of signing. Licensed in ~2 weeks. No drifting. - Complete Hell Week — one week, 10–12 hr days. First sale is the target. - Attend every training and team call. Run the script. Hit daily activity minimums. - Protect the book: write quality business and serve clients so it stays on the books (persistency). - Coachable, accountable, honest. Bet on yourself the way we're betting on you.

The deal is symmetrical: world-class support for world-class effort. State it that way.

2. Agreement terms to cover (so nothing surprises them later)

You specifically wanted the agreement to help with chargebacks and rollup. Cover these plainly on Call 3 — surprise on these is what creates resentment and quitting.

Chargebacks — explain in plain English

- Carriers often advance a chunk of the first-year commission up front (e.g., 6–9 months advanced).
- If the policy cancels or lapses before that advance is "earned out," the carrier charges back the unearned portion — the agent owes it back.
- How we protect the agent:
- Train to write quality, affordable business the client will keep (right product, right budget) — the single biggest chargeback defense.

- Teach persistency habits: confirm the draft date, do the welcome/retention call, make sure the first payment clears.
- Be transparent about advance vs. as-earned options so a new agent can choose lower-risk as-earned while learning if they want.
- A clear written policy on how team handles a chargeback balance (no hidden surprises).

Rollup ("roll-up") — explain in plain English

- In a hierarchy, if a downline agent leaves owing a chargeback balance the carrier can't collect, that debt can "roll up" to the upline who contracted them.
- How we handle it as a team: explain it openly, set expectations about debt responsibility, and use it as the reason we hold a high standard at recruiting — we'd rather pass on a bad fit than carry their rollup. (This is also why the knockout questions and Hell Week exist: they prevent the situation that creates rollup.)

Other agreement essentials

- 1099 independent contractor status (not employee — no salary, no "hire" language).
- Commission/comp level and advance terms in writing.
- Lead cost responsibility (agent funds their leads).
- Ownership of book / what happens if they leave.
- Confidentiality + data handling (client PII, GLBA).
- Compliance acknowledgment (no false income claims, DNC/TCPA, carrier rules).

3. Onboarding checklist (Day 0 — run every time)

Copy this per recruit into their tracker notes:

[ ] Agreement signed (DocuSign)
[ ] State requirements looked up (course hours / fingerprints / exam provider)
[ ] State exam SCHEDULED (~Day 9-11) and paid
[ ] Pre-licensing course enrolled (state-approved provider)
[ ] Background check / fingerprints started (if state requires)
[ ] SureLC / contracting invite sent (carrier appointments)
[ ] Added to team group chat / community
[ ] Orientation call booked (Day 1)
[ ] Daily check-in cadence agreed
[ ] Study plan + practice-exam target (80%+) given
[ ] Shadowing scheduled (listen to live calls during study week)

Then before Hell Week:

[ ] Exam PASSED, license # recorded
[ ] Carrier appointments complete, writing numbers issued
[ ] Lead source set up
[ ] CRM access
[ ] Dialer access (Family Shield dialer) + test dial done together
[ ] Scripts delivered, one role-play completed
[ ] Hell Week dates confirmed on calendar

4. Income-claim safe language (use everywhere)

Instead of numbers, say: - "Commission-based — what you earn depends on your effort and results." - "We give you the system and the support; the work is on you." - "Top agents do well, but results vary and aren't guaranteed."

Never: specific dollar figures, "replace your income in X weeks," "guaranteed," ranking screenshots without a typical-results disclosure. (FTC: any income claim needs a reasonable basis and must reflect typical results.)
